Port and Harbor Commission to build speculation building

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission voted Monday to construct a 10,000 square foot building for future tenants at Stennis International Airport.

"We do not have a tenant for this building yet but there have been several inquiries about the availability of space at the park," according to Harold Olsen, commission director.

The "speculation" building will be pre-fabricated, just a shell without even a concrete floor, he said.

There will be no improvements to the building so it will be adaptable to any industrial configuration, Olsen added.

He reported to commission members a proposal for construction of this speculation building had been discussed by the Development Committee.

"It will make our park a little more attractive to tenants," he said.

Prospective tenants which are interested in relocating right away look for areas with space such as this available, Olsen said.

"Many industrial parks have several of these buildings empty and available at one time," Commissioner Dave McDonald said.

The commission also voted to get specifications to build two single-plane hangars at Stennis International Airport.

Olsen told the commission there had been several requests from plane owners who do not want their planes left out in the open or stored in a hangar with several other planes.

The commission agreed to build one 60-X-40 and one 40-X-44 hangar. These will be built so additional private hangars can be added as needed.

Also at the meeting the commission voted to award a bid to Claude Green for construction of a 1,000 foot side track at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Green's bid for $43,751 was substantially lower than the other bid for the project.

Alabama Construction and Railroad Maintenance Company of Mobile, Ala. bid $62,331.

The additional track will be used for a railcar wash operation at Port Bienville.

In January, the railroad committee reported in discussion with Borg-Warner Chemicals it had been determined both a railcar and scales operation was needed at the park.

Borg-Warner also guaranteed a certain amount of income to the commission from these operations.

Olsen also reported to the commission on a recent trip to California with a group of state development people.

He said the group visited with 27 prospective California clients in various industries including consulting, plastics extractions, garment manufacturing, food and medical instruments manufacturing.

The visits were to 27 manufacturers who had responded to an earlier mailing.

Olsen said the group was received favorably by several of these manufacturers and many problems they are currently facing in California could be solved with expansion or relocation to Mississippi.

There will be no improvements to the building so it will be adaptable to any industrial configuration, Olsen added.

County supervisors to continue support for ASRM engine testing program location at Hancock facility

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

National Space Technology Laboratories will continue "in the foreseeable future as the country's largest testing facility" of its type, according to Roy Estess, deputy director.

Estess spoke Tuesday to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on a recent agreement between the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the U.S. Air Force to develop and test a new Advanced Launch System at NSTL.

He also praised the county government officials for their support of the programs at NSTL.

Procurement procedures for some equipment needed for the new launch system will begin immediately, he told the supervisors, and selection of a designer for the test facility will be next.

Approximately $300 million will be used to fund the project and of that amount $100 million will be used to construct a new testing facility at NSTL, he said.

"We have one test stand available now and will have another available in 1992-93 when the space shuttle work begins to tail off," Estess added.

One thousand permanent jobs are expected to result from this new program.

When questioned about the affect of ALS program location at NSTL in regards to location of the proposed Advanced Solid Rocket Motor program here, Estess said the two programs are not connected.

He told the group, Jerry Hlass, NSTL director, was in Washington D.C. this week meeting with officials and a decision on the ASRM program should be reached within weeks.

Of the three top sites being considered, NSTL has many things in its favor including an existing canal transportation system, support people in place and the buffer zone, Estess said.

The supervisors agreed to continue providing any support necessary to help get the ASRM program located at the Hancock County facility.

In other business they also agreed to again seek federal aid to get Texas Flat road paved due to the anticipated increase of traffic at Stennis caused by the new launch system program location at NSTL.

The board also agreed to donate $1,000 to a committee of members of the Gulf Coast Vietnam Veterans Association and the Vietnamese Veterans Association which is bringing the "Moving Wall" a one-half size replica of the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington D.C., to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Henry Cook, chairman of this committee, spoke to the supervisors about the need for not only a visit by this memorial but for a permanent memorial in the state of Mississippi.

"It is very important to teach our youth about what really happened in the Vietnam War because it is sometimes looked upon as a blight on our history," Cook said.

In addition to the donation, the supervisors instructed Cook to come back with another request for funds when plans were underway for a permanent memorial.

Cook said the arrival of the "Moving Wall" on the Gulf Coast would

Tractor and accessories recovered in two states

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two men have been arrested in connection with the burglary of a Ford tractor with a box blade and front-end loader.

Cecil Stevenson, 28, Rt. 3, Purvis and James Lewis Ragland, 23, Rt. 10, Box 1100, Hattiesburg were arrested this week and charged with grand larceny, Hancock County Criminal Investigator Delbert Seay said.

The tractor was reported missing from Gulf Coast Sweeper Service, US-90, Waveland on Feb. 2.

Seay stated the tractor and box blade were recovered on March 14 in Pineville, La. The front-end loader had been taken off the tractor and sold in Theodore, Ala. and is now in the process of being recovered, Seay said.

Stevenson and Ragland were arrested by Lamar County sheriff's deputies and are being held for Harrison and Hancock authorities. They are believed to be involved in some type of theft ring, Seay stated.

An full scale investigation by Hancock, Harrison and Lamar Counties sheriffs' departments and Mississippi Highway Patrol investigators is still underway, Seay added.

The suspects are being held without bond in the Lamar County Jail, said Seay who is in charge of the case locally.

Hancock County Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and Hancock County Concerned Citizens Organization are sponsoring a joint voter registration drive to sign some 100 new voters for the November General Election.

Geraldine Lang, spokesperson for the groups, said returns from the Super Tuesday primary elections indicate there may be a considerable number of unregistered eligible voters in Hancock County.

"We see a need for a strengthening of the voice of the people as registered voters in the party caucuses and other political activities in Hancock County," Lang said.

Legends recount exploits of Ireland's Patron Saint

By JOE FILET

On Mar. 17 it is the custom of the people of Bay St. Louis and Waveland to observe the day St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland, died.

The day of his death, rather than the date of his birth is celebrated because on that day he "engaged in to the larger life."

Those observing the date will include such prominent citizens as the Mayor of Waveland, Hon. John O'Longo; Mayor of Bay St. Louis, Hon. Victor O'Frankiewicz; The O'Cuevas' family; the O'Ladners; the O'Neasels, family and many others.

Perhaps the names bring a smile to your lips? It really isn't all that funny when you recall that St. Patrick was born at Boulogne in France in the year 387. The name Patrick is derived from the Latin name which means "noble."

From historical accounts the name was apt for St. Patrick was a nobleman, a scholar and a gentleman. He mastered Irish, French and Latin and had a nodding acquaintance with Greek.

In a book published in June of 1880 the historian John O'Kane Murray, MA and MD, tells of the trials and triumphs of the good saint and said: "In less than a quarter of a century from the day St. Patrick set foot on the emerald shores, the greater part of Ireland was Catholic."

In summing up the outstanding achievements of St. Patrick, Murray said:

"He consecrated three hundred and fifty bishops, erected seven hundred churches, ordained five thousand priests, and raised thirty-three persons from the dead."

Many legends, myths and fables have come down through the ages—no doubt re-embroidered. The following accounts are to be found in "Little Lives of the Great Saints," published in 1880 by P. J. Kennedy and Sons of New York:

"While running about in a field one of his (Patrick's) sisters fell, striking her forehead against a sharp stone. The girl was so stunned she seemed to be lifeless. Friends anxiously gathered around, and her little brother was soon on the scene. Patrick's surgery was wonderful! He made the sign of the cross and her blood stained countenance, and instantly the wound was healed."

Then there is on record an account of St. Patrick adding a foot or so of height to a man who wished to become taller. But the greatest of all is the "Goat Story." Here it is verbatim, lifted from The Lives of Great Saints:

"Saint Patrick, it is told, had a favorite goat which was so well-trained that it proved very serviceable.

"But a sly thief fixed his evil eye on the animal, stole it, and made a feast of its remains. The loss of the goat called for an investigation; and the thief, on being accused, protested with an oath that he was innocent.

"But little did he dream his accuser. The goat which was swallowed in his stomach, says Jocelin, bleated loudly forth and proclaimed the merits of St. Patrick."

The miracle did not stop there—I quote again: "At the sentence of the saint all the man's prosterity were marked with the beard of a goat."

And so, at the age of 78 on the 17th of March in the year 465 St. Patrick passed from this world. The magnificent St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue, New York resembles the French Gothic churches and is a fitting tribute to St. Patrick who immortalized the Shamrock by using it to illustrate the meaning of the Holy Trinity.

St. Patrick's Day has been observed since 1745 in Colonial America and now nation-wide. He was buried in Downpatrick—County of Down, Ireland.

North Bay, junior high renovations plans ready

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board of Trustees will review final plans for renovations at North Bay Elementary School and Bay Junior High School next week.

Fred Wagner, architect for the project will have these plans and specifications available for board members and the public. Roger Oge, superintendent, reported Monday at the board's regular meeting.

The board called a special meeting March 25 at 2 p.m. to authorize for advertisement of the plans for bids.

Bids are expected to be opened at a special school board meeting April 18.

Oge said if everything proceeds on schedule, the construction of the renovations at these schools is set to begin May 30.

This work should be completed within the summer months in time for the beginning of school in the fall.

The board also agreed to continue conducting school at the Fifth Grade Center for another year.

Oge said in spite of the controversy when the center was opened, it is now a "model of positive educational process, collaborative procedures, parent involvement and community support".

At the meeting he presented a series of advantages and disadvantages of continuing the Fifth Grade Center for another school year.

Oge cited the strong community support, from various community elements as well as parents and parents of children with prospective attendance at the center as an advantage for continuance.

He also said at the center currently there are outstanding programs in progress.

Oge also told the board, without the Fifth Grade Center, an additional two classrooms will be required for the next school year.

Isolation of teachers from other professionals and isolation of students from the other grades were named as disadvantages of the continuance.

Other disadvantages are the complicated transportation routes and additional expenses involved in operating the center as a self-contained school.

Oge's recommended continuance of the center for another school year due to the exemplary program underway and because he believes this will solve two classroom problems for the coming school year.

In other business at the meeting, the board voted 4-1 to extend contracts to teachers at all district schools for the 1988-89 school year.

Board member Linda Penrose voted against extending contracts to the list of teachers as presented at the meeting.

Also at the meeting new board member Willie "Zeke" Bradley was sworn in and 1988-89 officers were elected.

Betty Diboll was reelected to serve as president of the board and Charles Benvenuti was elected to serve as secretary for the board.

Board members also voted to continue in a consortium with Hancock County, Long Beach and Pass Christian school districts to serve physically handicapped/hearing impaired students.

The funding is based on the percentage of students from a district participating in the program.

Therefore, the Bay-Waveland school district with three students participating, pays 30 percent of the program costs.

The consortium was formed approximately eight years ago and is administrated by the Pass Christian School District.

Quotables by Cuevas '99

I received an unsigned letter from a reader questioning why I had attributed the dead mullets to commercial fishermen in a caption appearing under a photo on last Thursday's editorial page.

The reason for attributing the dead fish to commercial fishermen was the fact that I do not know of any sportsfishermen who catch mullet by the pickup truck loads as was involved in the American Legion Pier incident.

Commercial fishermen as a whole obey all the laws, yet like any other group, there are always a very small percentage who make it look bad for the vast majority.

I do agree with the reader about the lack of interest of some beach users in helping keep our beaches clean. All they would have to do is collect their debris before leaving and properly dispose of it.

On Sunday Billy Holder will attempt to repeat his Bay to Bay run for the March of Dimes.

Holder, who has completed the run from Bay St. Louis to Biloxi, a distance of 31.1 miles, is scheduled to begin the run at 8 a.m. at Hancock Bank, Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis.

Holder, who was helped with surgery by the March of Dimes when he was a youngster, is taking pledges from the public for his Bay to Bay Run.

Persons interested in joining Holder in the run can do so, even if it is just for a short distance. He is expected to make the run in about five hours.

Parties interested in making a pledge may do so by calling Holder at 864-9073 or write to: Billy's Bay to Bay Run, Rt. 1, Box 19-M, Gulfport, MS.

It is good to hear law enforcement agencies are putting the 'heat' on persons who litter in the area.

One subject, in an appearance before Hancock County Justice Court Judge Joseph Dobson this week, received a $500 fine with $400 suspended and was ordered to clean up the mess.

On Tuesday night three other persons were arrested and charged with littering and are scheduled to appear in Justice Court.

There is far too much littering going on throughout the county and we are happy our law enforcement officers are enforcing the statutes.

To the Editor,

I'm glad that you like the new sidewalk down Main Street in Bay St. Louis. However, I find it very offensive, and it discriminates against me and other like me.

You complained about stumbling over broken concrete, tree roots, busted driveways and other objects. Well, the new sidewalk fixed this for you. However, with no cuts for wheelchairs at the corners, it says no, stay away, and I don't want you to those of us who must use wheelchairs.

It is a waste of money as it will not be many years before cuts are required by law.

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland area needs to have a policy to require new construction and improvements to be accessible. I have considered talking to the mayor about this, but his office is up a flight of stairs.

I have complained several times at the Burger King and the new Dairy Queen about the fact that they are not accessible, but have seen no results.

Dairy Queen even has a handicapped parking space, but one cannot enter their building without a lot of help. Hancock Bank downtown, Shieldsboro Square, except one section, Popeye's, Goodwill, West and many other businesses are not accessible.

Bay Junior High is a nightmare but is supposed to be fixed with the building program.

As the population grows older and older, there will be more and more people using wheelchairs. We are no longer staying at home.

We are getting out more and more by ourselves, but even one step up will keep us out of places we would like to patronize or visit.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joan Knight

Housekeeping

A weekly summary from the House of Representatives

JACKSON—With a crucial committee deadline behind them, members of the House of Representatives shifted their efforts this week to scores of bills awaiting floor action.

Teachers' salaries, county government, white collar crime, tort reform, and compulsory automobile insurance were among the widely discussed topics of the past week as committees worked at a stepped-up pace to complete their chores. By the end of the hectic week, more than 180 bills had been sent to the bulging calendar for consideration by the full House.

Highlights of the week included House approval of a bill calling for an average increase of approximately $3,000 for school teachers in the coming school year with another $700 pay raise in 1989-1990, making a total increase averaging $3,700. The legislation triggered more than six hours of debate last Friday before winning passage. Several unsuccessful attempts were made to modify the proposed salary scale or phase-in the pay raises to lighten the cost of the package.

Most legislators agree teachers should get an increase but differed sharply over specific amounts and whether the raises could be adequately funded without hurting other vital programs. Backers said the bill would clearly establish education as a top priority and help boost teacher salaries in Mississippi to the Southeastern average. Other lawmakers expressed serious reservations over proposals for funding the bill.

Bills also were awaiting action at the close of the past week that would provide pay raises for state officials, judges, state employees, and various county officials including sheriffs and supervisors.

The Attorney General's Office would be granted new powers to combat white-collar crime under a bill winning House approval last week. The measure, recommended by the Judiciary "A" Committee, would authorize the Attorney General to conduct investigations into cases of statewide interest involving alleged fraud, kickbacks and similar offenses.

The Attorney General would be given new, limited subpoena powers and be allowed to prosecute cases investigated by his office. Backers said the legislation includes safeguards to prevent abuse of the additional powers. Also, the bill spelled out that the authority extended to the Attorney General would not diminish any powers of local officials to investigate or prosecute white-collar crime in their area.

Although committee work took priority because of the March 10 deadline, several measures also saw floor action last week as House members prepared for another key deadline in the current week. Legislators faced a Thursday, March 17, cutoff for passage of general bills and constitutional amendments originating in their own chamber.

The flood of bills pouring out of committees last week included proposals involving compulsory auto liability insurance, a mail-in voter registration plan, an economic development highway act, an expansion of the Medicaid program, a long-term care Ombudsman act for nursing home residents, inspection and testing of underground storage tanks, revisions in Workers Compensation laws, and a county home rule measure.

An agreement was reached in the County Affairs Committee on a mandatory county-unit bill but, due to the crunch of the deadlines, it was decided to temporarily leave the bill in committee and take up another county-unit measure passed earlier by the Senate. The plan was to amend the Senate bill to conform to the House version.

A number of bills were approved by House committees dealing with the civil justice system, including proposals to reduce the statute of limitations on damage suits from six to four years and discourage frivolous lawsuits.

Other bills in the so-called "tort reform" package were rejected or died in committee. Main casualties included hotly contested bills to limit punitive damage awards and revise the joint and several liability system.

Other bills recently approved by the House include a measure to require vehicles in which maximum security prisoners are transported to be equipped with a partition to protect the driver. Sponsors said the bill could prevent dangerous criminals from trying to overpower officers and escape while en route to prison. The bill still faces Senate action.

A bill that would allow motorists to purchase distinctive automobile license tags showing the colors and acronym of the owner's favorite state university was passed by the House. The tags would cost $37 with most of the proceeds going to the universities for maintenance and renovation projects.

Another bill passed by the House would allow people from foreign countries to own up to 320 acres of land in Mississippi if the property is used for industrial development. Backers said the legislation was to assist economic development efforts.

In addition, the House voted last week to give health officials expanded authority to conduct screening tests for newborn infants for genetic disorders; tighten the child pornography law by making it illegal to ship or mail videotapes showing a child engaged in sexual conduct; allow the Public Safety Department to hire civilian driver license examiners; make several technical revisions in uniform school laws; provide for the pledge of allegiance to the flag on a daily basis, instead of monthly, in elementary and junior high schools; and continue a 1987 incentive scholarship program for teachers, due to expire in July unless reenacted.

The following statement was released by Representative Curtis Holston concerning House Bill 601 to provide a salary increase for school teachers:

"First, let me make it clear that I am in favor of providing a substantial pay raise to Mississippi's teachers this year. They deserve a pay raise and I intend to help them get one."

"However, I do not support HB 601 in its present shape. Here are some of my reasons:

"In order to fund the salary increases in the bill, it would be necessary to take funds away from other essential agencies or programs including the State Forestry Department and the Mississippi National Guard. We also would be asked to take a total of around $39 million in road-user funds and divert them to teacher salaries, rather than being used for highways as intended."

"We would be asked to dip into certain 'special' funds accumulated by agencies for specific purposes, including some of the funds from the Oil and Gas Board. These monies are needed to develop the oil and gas reserves in Mississippi, which can be a vital part of our continued economic growth in years ahead."

"We would be asked to deny any pay raise to about 7,000 state employees, not only for the coming year but for the next four years. The remaining state employees may get a token salary increase but it would because the filing deadline had passed in the other states.

The package was supported by a 49-member business coalition who blamed soaring jury awards with scaring businesses and industries from locating in the state and scaring doctors from practicing some medical specialties. However, critics of the tort reform movement complain that the bills would dismantle the jury system of deciding fair damages and deprive the average person of recourse.

Other victims after the March 10 deadline were proposals to:

- regulate smoking in public places.
- amend the constitution to legalize state lotteries.
- protect AIDS victims from discrimination.
- require registration of residential child-care facilities.

Unaffected by last week's deadline were most of the top issues on the 1988 agenda at the Capitol: a statewide vote on replacing the state constitution, mandating more centralized county government instead of beat-by-beat independence, a commission to study government reorganization and the teacher pay raise bill.

Also passed last week was a bill authorizing ombudsmen to oversee the care of the 15,000 Mississippians in nursing homes. The House Judiciary "B" Committee passed the measure, which supporters say must pass to insure Mississippi is in compliance with federal requirements to receive aging funds.

House

HB 601. The House passed 93-15 a trimmed-down first-year raise amount. Mabus expressed satisfaction with the House-passed bill on Friday. It still faces Senate action before becoming law.

The teacher pay bill does not address how to fund the raises. Mabus has called for cuts to other state agencies, reorganization of state government and use of higher-than-expected revenues and one-time revenue sources to pay for the raises without increasing taxes.

However, some legislators believe that a tax increase will be inevitable next year to cover the added expense of the bigger teacher paychecks.

Among the bills surviving the March 10 deadline were a watered-down version of Lt. Gov. Brad Dye's student drug testing plan, a measure that could legalize jai alai in Tunica County and measures calling for compulsory automobile liability insurance, seat belt use with no penalties attached for violations and pay raises for state employees and officials ranging from the governor to the county tax collector.

Wounded by the deadline was a package of bills backed by business groups aimed at reducing the threat of expenses caused by lawsuits.

Rejected by the House Judiciary "A" Committee were proposals to limit pain and suffering awards to $250,000 in lawsuits, to bar suits for punitive damages and to separate the liability for individual defendants. Parts of the package approved were cutting the time for filing damage suits from six years to four and to ban filing suits originating in states other than Mississippi.

SENATE

SB 2587. The Senate voted 31-18 to create a Mississippi Commission on Public School Activities within the State Department of Education. The move effectively would abolish the Mississippi High School Activities Association. Some of the supporters of the plan expressed dissatisfaction with actions of the association, while some opponents labeled the vote vindictive. Taylor, no; Tate, yes.

Holston issues statement on teacher pay raise bill

The following statement was released by Representative Curtis Holston concerning House Bill 601 to provide a salary increase for school teachers:

"First, let me make it clear that I am in favor of providing a substantial pay raise to Mississippi's teachers this year. They deserve a pay raise and I intend to help them get one."

"However, I do not support HB 601 in its present shape. Here are some of my reasons:

"In order to fund the salary increases in the bill, it would be necessary to take funds away from other essential agencies or programs including the State Forestry Department and the Mississippi National Guard. We also would be asked to take a total of around $39 million in road-user funds and divert them to teacher salaries, rather than being used for highways as intended."

"We would be asked to dip into certain 'special' funds accumulated by agencies for specific purposes, including some of the funds from the Oil and Gas Board. These monies are needed to develop the oil and gas reserves in Mississippi, which can be a vital part of our continued economic growth in years ahead."

"We would be asked to deny any pay raise to about 7,000 state employees, not only for the coming year but for the next four years. The remaining state employees may get a token salary increase but it would amount to only 3 percent to 3.5 percent.

"Certain educational funds would be cut. This could result in a heavier financial burden on the local school districts which, in turn, very likely would lead to an increase in ad valorem taxes on property.

"And, even after all of these things were done, an analysis by legislative budget specialists indicates the state would come up about $40 million short of having sufficient funds to cover the proposed pay raises. The shortfall would steadily increase over the next three years.

"Beyond a shadow of a doubt, the enactment of HB 601 in its present form would force the Governor or Legislature to do one of three things within the next year to three years—raise taxes; make further cutbacks in crucial state programs; or switch to a massive bond program that would mean placing a debt obligation on our people and children for the next 20 to 30 years.

This bill has been billed as a measure that would raise teachers in Mississippi to the Southeastern average. This is a worthy goal, but the bill simply would not accomplish what its supporters hope it will accomplish.

"Let me reemphasize that I do plan to help teachers get a pay raise,

but I prefer phasing in the increases as was done in 1985, 1986 and 1987.

This we can do without causing the financial chaos that HB 601 would create."

North Bay Elementary School News

By Audrey Mueller

Jitney Jungle Food Store had a two day fundraiser last spring to raise money for North Bay Elementary PTO. The money that was raised by this store's generous efforts went towards purchasing computers for the school classrooms.

The goal of North Bay's PTO was and still is to have a number of computers for each classroom. This store's efforts was an excellent example of how local businesses can improve and help schools.

The parents, students and faculty that turned out in January for Clean-Up Day were greatly appreciated for their time and effort.

The first grade teachers were recognized during the month of January for doing a great job. Mrs. Mary Kay Deen, Miss Linda Reeves, Mrs. Darlene Buffkin, Linda Haynes and Miss Danita Scianca are the first grade teachers on the North Bay staff.

The accreditation committee from the State Department of Education evaluated North Bay during the week of February 1-5 for its accreditation. Student promotion and retention, grading and reporting were discussed at the February PTO meeting. A handout explaining these policies was passed out to the audience.

Mr. Roger James, Principal, explained the need for a counselor at the school. North Bay PTO saluted the second grade teachers for the month of February. Miss Anita Jacobs, Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, Mrs. Nell Woodall and Mrs. Carolyn Bullock.

North Bay School is fortunate to have such wonderful teachers on staff.

Brownie Troop 102 presented the colors at the meeting and received awards from their leader, Mrs.

Romantic looks inspire spring fashions

Romance is in the air, as well as in the wardrobe this spring. According to Singer Sewing Company, the fashion approach for spring is softer, replacing the strict tailoring of the past few seasons. A resurgence of femininity shows up in new romantic styles, fabrics and colors.

Washable silks, crinkled taffetas and lightweight linens all appear on the fashion scene in new, muted pastels. When black shows up, it is generally combined with soft neutral shades to create a more subdued look.

Many of the new women's fashions capture the romantic feelings of the thirties, while the young miss will be sporting flirty fifties-era styles.

All told, spring has fashions to please almost everyone.

Best of all, this year's spring fashions can be coordinated easily from clothes you already own. Singer Sewing Company suggests you take a look at your basics before purchasing any new wardrobe components—it's amazing what you can do to existing clothes with a little ingenuity and a sewing machine.

Take a look at your skirts. This season anything goes in terms of length, with an emphasis on short. A-lines in particular are shortened easily for an instant fashion statement.

However, there is no reason to fret if short is not for you. Long skirts and petticoats are also big.

Try attaching lace or eyelet with a sewing machine, such as the Singer Style 6233. Stitch it to your skirt's hem and voila!—a soft petticoat effect.

To tie together an entire outfit, attach a matching lace or eyelet collar to a blouse or sweater with a basic jewel neckline. Or create a lace or fabric scarf using the rolled hem on a Singer overlock machine.

To top off your new and updated outfit, accessorize with wider belts, fancy buttons and gloves. Belts are easy to make from Ultrasuede fabric, heavyweight linen or any leather-like fabric on a Singer conventional or overlock sewing machine.

To add a finishing touch, purchase one of the fancy buckles available at your local fabric or specialty store.

Pearl buttons and lace ruffles can be attached to dress gloves to add innocent charm to your romantic look. Ruffles can be made either by hand or using a Singer ruffler attachment, which simultaneously gathers and stitches the fabric to your gloves.

A little creativity and a sewing machine can help you keep your spring fashions updated without spending a fortune.

Easy-to-follow blueprints for beautiful eyes

For spring, 1988, the eyes have it! Everywhere you look, the eyes that look the best are outlined and defined for drama, depth and interest.

With eyes having such impact, the Clarion beauty experts, whose Clarion Makeup Collection and Personalized Color System Computer are available at drugstores everywhere, predict that make-up "must haves" will be indispensable eye lining implements. An eye definer pencil is ideal for beautifully unfadable (even waterproof) subtle looks.

For more sophisticated effects, they suggest the flawless look of a precision liquid liner.

To achieve the subtle look, select from the flattering shades of eye definer pencil recommended for you by the Clarion Color System Computer and draw a soft line at the base of upper and lower lashes.

This will give lashes a look of increased length and lushness. Next, use the tip of a cotton swab to softly "blur" the lines.

Finish by sweeping lashes to glamourous new lengths with a coordinating shade of mascara to surround eyes in an ultra-flattering halo of color.

Sophisticated eye enhancement is achieved with the flawless perfection of a precision liquid liner, in your best computer-recommended color. The specially cut brush creates the slender outline this look demands.

Begin by using an eye definer lining pencil to sketch a soft line at the base of lashes on both upper and lower lids. Next, trace over this outline with precision liquid liner in a corresponding shade. For the finishing touch, groom lashes to a seductive, sweeping fringe by curling first, then applying several coats of mascara.

Besides creating two of the season's most exciting new eye looks, eye lining implements can help perfect the shape of your eyes. Here, some Clarion tips:

If eyes are small: Bring them out by using a subtle shade of eye definer pencil.

Avoid inner corners of the eyes, and apply so that color seems to hug the base of the upper-lashes. Curl lashes, and apply mascara, coating each lash individually.

If eyes are large: Liquid liner can help them appear larger when applied just under lower lashes, from inner to outer corners. Apply lots of mascara, brushing lashes away from the center to create a wide-eyed look.

If eyes are too prominent: Create depth by applying eye definer pencil all around the eye, and precision liquid liner over this outline. Finish with several coats of mascara in a coordinating shade.

• What else is hot for shoes, this spring? Costume jewelry to accessorize! Shoe clips are the newest in fashion statement pieces. Look for bows, pins and antique-inspired shapes featuring rhinestones, animal skin designs and lace.

• Pamper your feet with a regular, beauty treatment. Use a pumice stone to soften and smooth rough calluses. Moisturize your feet, and then use a foot powder to protect them. For a special treat, go for a professional pedicure.

SPRINGTIME MAKEOVER FOR YOUR FEET

This spring, fashion footwear not only complements the new leg-baring styles, but completes your total look.

The shoes for spring are pretty, soft and very feminine, and your feet will have to look pretty to have these fashions work to your best advantage.

Aris Isotoner, makers of Isotoner Comfort Slippers, suggests the following fashion and footcare tips to prepare your feet for the months ahead:

- Look for shoes with feminine detailing: Ankle straps, inset straps, narrower wedges and the oval toe.

- The newest fabrics for spring are delicate wovens—in floral patterns and pastel colors—perfect to soften any look.

- Wear shoes that are made of absorbent material—such as leather—to let your feet breathe. And make sure to wear slippers at home, to protect your feet from bedroom bumps and bruises.

Lustrous cultured pearl jewelry: The perfect enhancement for sophisticated spring styles

Sweeping in with femininely flirtatious forms that range from playful to sophisticated, spring fashion '88 features a multitude of short, swingy skirts, sporty walking shorts "suits," and elegant evening wear in every fabric from taffeta and silk to crinoline and tulle.

The ease of dropped jackets and the soft, supple lines of silk jersey slacks round out the myriad of options for the latest spring looks.

With summer's bared shoulders and proper accessories are increasingly important as the means of expressing a personal sense of style.

As appropriate as ever, cultured pearl jewelry is the perfect way to enhance both daytime and evening looks.

The timeless appeal of cultured pearl jewelry is easily apparent but, in many cases, consumers do not understand the intricacies of selecting cultured pearls, which are both high in quality and flattering to individual features and proportions.

Distinguishing between a cultured pearl and an imitation pearl is the first step toward selecting a piece of jewelry that will have lasting beauty and value.

Like natural pearls, cultured pearls have a soft inner glow, or luster, which emanates from deep within the pearl. Imitation pearls have a surface shine but no luster.

Cultured pearls have a gritty feel when applied to the surface of the tooth, while simulated pearls feel smooth and have a glassy, metallic look.

Ultimately, the value of cultured pearls is determined by size, luster, surface perfection and color.

Although most people think of pearls as being "white," most pearls actually have rose, silver or cream overtones.

Cultured pearl necklaces should always be selected based on individual skin color. For fair complexions, pink-hued cultured pearls are recommended, while cream-colored cultured pearls are most flattering for dark skin tones.

The strapless dresses and shoulder wrap bandage tops of spring and summer are perfect for displaying cultured pearl necklaces of one or more strands.

Available in a variety of lengths, from discreet chokers to the elegantly regal opera length strand, cultured pearl necklaces are all the more versatile when a pretty gemstone clasp is added.

A pair of feminine, cultured mabe pearl earrings, perhaps edged in gold, is the perfect complement to summer's sleeked-back hairstyles and flirtatious fashions.

The cultured pearl is a true chameleon that adapts to any number of looks.

Accenting the playful or sultry when combined with one outfit, or looking classically demure and sophisticated when accessorizing another, cultured pearl jewelry combines beauty and versatility for long-lasting value and fashion finesse.

On the forefront of fashion...

Haute couture influences spring fashion, jewelry

The new youthful approach taken by top couture fashion designers is sparking reactions all over the world and dramatically changing the way women dress.

Quality and style are strong international influences, but most important is a revitalized spirit (which accounts for the instant stardom of fashion designer Christian Lacroix)—the return of pure femininity and long-lasting beauty, as in real gold jewelry—which is sending women to the stores.

The most important jewelry styles for spring look bold, yet are delicate, light and airy. Just like the transparent fabrics so many fashion designers are using, gold jewelry appears puffed, rippled and more sculptural than ever before.

To decorate the ears in dramatic fashion, there are dangling open fans, the swirling skeletons of sea shells, and cut-out "Venetian blinds" in geometric shapes.

To enhance the skin-baring looks for spring/summer, gold is just as dazzling. Sexy off-the-shoulder and backless tops, not to mention short cropped skirts, call for important wrist treatment.

A sandblasted 14k gold cuff is cut and formed to look like billowing sails—a "big" look this season but light as a feather in weight.

A beautiful gold link necklace in graphic loop design also draws attention to an open neckline and makes a statement.

The top trendsetting designers agree: Everything's coming up roses for spring. The rose is the number one accent, replacing last year's Chanel bow. Watch for the florals to bloom in gold, too.

Engraved or stamped rose stickpins and oversized floral earrings will enhance some of the most stylish looks around—gracing the collar of a sheer blouse, decorating the brim of a spring hat, or adorning the lapel of a pastel-colored suit. It's all part of the trend towards romantic styling.

Women are sure to fall in love with spring, and with looking pretty again. If it's up to the couture designers, feminine fashion graced with quality jewelry in the modern sense will be "in" for many seasons to come.

Students know: Class rings are always classy!

As a student who wants to outclass others, there's no end to the problems you must solve. Aside from reading, "rithmetic, riddles and career goal decisions, there are other questions to consider: Fashion, for instance. Hemlines up or down? Shoulders padded or natural? Waists belted or not?

Well, ArtCarved Class Rings, a leading school ring manufacturer, takes some of the guesswork out of making a fashion statement by suggesting one accessory that's always in style: A class ring.

A class ring is a symbol of scholastic achievement, pride in one's school and accomplished goals—all in a fine piece of jewelry.

This great American tradition was started in 1835 by the West Point Cadets.

but, since then, class ring styles have changed considerably.

Today, a diverse selection of class ring styles is available, ranging from the ever-popular "traditional" oval to delicate, contemporary designs. And, with so many options from which to choose, a class ring can be customized to reflect the student's own personality.

These options include full first name, school mascot, or sport or honor symbol sculpted on the side. Gem choice can be a birthstone, school color stone—or even a diamond to express a sparkling personality.

Because there are so many styles and options available, high school class rings should be purchased from your local jeweler, who can offer you professional service and advice year-round.

College rings are available at campus bookstores, where trained personnel can assist you at all times.

To ensure that your class ring will give you years and years of fashionable wear, make sure it comes with a full lifetime warranty.

The most comprehensive, such as ArtCarved's, will include free resizing, refinishing, stone replacement, cleaning and changes in graduation year.

So, no need to worry. 'n' fret about fashion "do's" and "don'ts." A class ring will always outshine your other accessories, while it reflects your personality, taste and pride, in style.

Bold colors, shapely lines mark Italian fashions

Short and lively are the watchwords for Italian fashion this spring, according to the Italian Trade Commission.

"The rise in hemlines last fall was the biggest news in fashion in several seasons, and it looks like a major direction for spring and beyond," observes Linda Harris of the Italian Trade Commission's Fashion Center.

"Yet the real news this spring," she adds, "is not simply short hem, but a general mood of bold femininity interpreted in many ways."

Vivid colors and florals

Italian designers this season feature bright colors and prints that really call attention to shorter hem and body-hugging silhouettes.

This spring, fuchsia, tangerine, canary yellow, kelly green and electric blue fabrics create dazzling prints; most noteworthy of these are florals, which Italian designers feature as either abstract and miniature, or splashy and oversized, for a fresh, young and vital look.

Feminine suits

Italian suits for spring '88 are unabashedly feminine, in contrast to the more masculine tailoring which dominated past seasons.

Jackets are either long and shapely or cropped bolero-style, and are worn over skirts that hover at the knee or go as high as mid-thigh.

The peplum makes a big comeback this season, usually short and very full, which accents the waist and the fit of the jacket.

New necklines

Italian designers balance the bare leg this spring with wide necklines that bare the shoulders. Whether squared off, scooped, fastened at one shoulder, off the shoulder or strapless, spring's necklines are spirited and youthful, even in dressy daytime wear.

"Overall," Ms. Harris concludes, "Italian women's wear for spring '88 combines femininity with wearability, making it ideally suited for the American woman."

Rocks split pair in baseball action

The St. Stanislaus Rockachaws defeated St. John 4-3 in a come-from-behind win last Friday, then lost Monday to Long Beach 4-2 in a game called after six innings due to darkness.

In the St. John contest, the Rocks spotted the Eagles three runs in the first two innings before mounting their comeback.

Yasin Shabazz began the rally as he led off the bottom of the second inning with a shot to third base. Rocky Rhodes walked, and consecutive singles by Shane Sigsworth and Joe Lee scored Shabazz and Rhodes.

Scott Heitzmann then walked, but Sigsworth got caught in a run-down at third base, and was tagged out at home to end the rally.

The score stood 3-2 in favor of St. John until the bottom of the sixth inning. Greg Schruff walked and Yasin Shabazz singled for the second time in the game. Rhodes walked, and Sigsworth was issued his second walk of the game, scoring Schruff from third. A deep sacrifice fly to left centerfield by Joe Lee scored Shabazz from third base as the Rocks took a 4-3 lead.

Tom Zant pitched four innings allowing three hits. In the fifth inning Lloyd Nicaud relieved Zant and pitched two innings of hitless ball.

Cedric Smith came in to pitch in the seventh inning to secure the victory for the Rockachaws.

The Rocks hosted Long Beach in a cold afternoon Monday. The start of the game was delayed twenty minutes due to the late arrival of the Long Beach squad.

Long Beach jumped out to a 3-0 lead on three unearned runs by the Bearcats. With two outs and a runner on second, Terry Broadus was issued a walk. An error by third baseman Marc Matheine allowed one run to score, and with runners on first and third, the runner at first broke for second.

As pitcher Zant attempt to get the runner stealing second, the pinch runner for Broadus scored from third. A two-out squeeze play accounted for the third unearned run for Long Beach.

The Rocks got a run back in the bottom of the fourth when Matheine walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Joe Lee's single. Scott Heitzmann struck out to end the inning.

The Rocks picked up another run in the bottom of the fifth when Cedric Smith led off with a single, and Sigsworth walked. Both runners advanced on a passed ball, and the Rocks had runners on second and third with no outs.

Scarborough then popped up to the pitcher, Schruff, singled which brought in Smith from third. Shabazz line drive to the center fielder was not deep enough to score pinch-runner Engel from third base. Rock Rhodes popped up to the second baseman to end the inning, with the Rocks trailing 3-2.

In the top of the sixth, Long Beach picked up their fourth unearned run when Cade walked, stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball, and scored with two outs on another passed ball.

The Rocks could not mount an attack in the bottom of the sixth, and the home plate umpire called the game at this point.

St. Stanislaus is now 3-1, and plays in the Catholic Tournament this Thursday and Friday. On Thursday evening, the Rocks play St. John at 7:00 p.m., and play Mercy Cross Friday at 7:00 p.m. Both games will be played at Milner Stadium in Gulfport, since St. John is host team for the Tournament.

JACKSON—Hunters and fishermen across the state will soon have the perfect opportunity to make their opinions known to the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Corps threatens Mississippi ducks

A Corps of Engineers project threatens to doom Mississippi's largest concentration of wintering waterfowl, a flock containing over 100,000 ducks.

The migrant ducks descend each winter on Swan Lake, an oxbow slough that forms the primary attraction of Yazoo National Wildlife Refuge in Washington County near Greenville. A Corps project currently underway would allow the lake to drain, destroying the refuge as a waterfowl haven.

"If the lake is drained, the ducks will disappear. The great flights will be a memory," warned John H. Viser III, chairman of the Berry B. Brooks Foundation, a Memphis-based pro-hunting wildlife organization.

The foundation is one of several conservation organizations and individuals seeking to save the lake by forcing the Corps to alter its construction plans on the refuge. The work is part of the $2 billion Yazoo River basin drainage project.

"The Corps could wait for five to 10 years for the dikes to settle," said Wilkins. "Then it might take another five to 10 years for construction."

"We cannot wait 10 or 20 years for the return of permanent water," said Viser. "The ducks would be all gone—and they wouldn't come back. They wouldn't exist to come back."

Ironically, the Corps project envisions improving the refuge by constructing a by-pass ditch that would prevent agricultural run-off water containing harmful herbicides, pesticides and silt from flowing into Swan Lake. In addition, Corps plans call for construction of water-control structures to enable refuge managers to make the lake more attractive to waterfowl.

The controversy comes at a time when waterfowl populations are declining, a diminution attributable in part to a disappearing habitat on the wintering grounds.

The critical importance of Yazoo National Wildlife Refuge can be found in the fact that its duck population is increasing, while neighboring areas report declining numbers of waterfowl.

From 1961-65, the peak winter population of ducks on the refuge averaged 46,000. From 1981-85, the average population peaked at 106,120. Nearly 85 percent of the ducks are mallards.

A comparison of average wintering populations in the years 1961-65 and 1981-85 shows the numbers of ducks in Mississippi have increased by 72 percent.

In addition to the Berry B. Brooks Foundation, the Corps project is opposed by the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, the Sierra Club, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, local landowners and hunters.

Paying attention to protection

Bass have a six month spawning season: it starts in February in Florida and Alabama and continues through June in the northern U.S. and southern Canada. It's also important to know that largemouth bass need a water temperature of 62 degrees and smallmouth 59 degrees to spawn.

Additionally, all bass in a given body of water don't spawn at the same time. There is generally a five or six week period in which they spawn, so the three periods of pre-spawn, spawn and post-spawn can be found on any given body of water during the six week period.

Another rule of thumb to remember is that six out of 10 bass spawn on the first full moon, and the spawning on the moon cycle generally starts three days before the full moon.

This is one of the best times of year to catch a trophy bass. Both the males and females are on the nest.

The female, the larger of the species, is only on the nest for about five days; the male guards the nest for nearly a month.

It is at spawning time that the protective instinct works to the advantage of the bass angler. This protective instinct makes both the male and female hit intruders out of a sense of protection of the nest area; they do not hit out of hunger or anger necessarily. The exception to this is at dawn when the bass tries to eat.

According to David Wharton, member of the Johnson Outboard Pro Staff, the best way to present a lure to the bass on the nest is to throw it in the nest and leave it there.

"You don't have to do anything with it, you just throw it in the nest and leave it there until the bass does something with it. Sooner or later, they're going to pick it up and move it out of the nest or they're going to hit, or they're going to do something with it," Wharton states.

What are some of the best lures to use? "There are two different lures that work on spawning bass," Wharton stresses. "One of them is a lizard, a plastic lizard. That's one of the standby lures. Another one that has worked very well and will probably continue to do so is a bait called a Fat Gitzit."

Of course, several pros also suggest using a plastic worm and crawling it through the nesting area.

Getting a heavily loaded bass boat with two fishermen on board up on plane on a hot day can be a real problem with many three-blade props.

OMC Parts & Accessories has introduced a solution to the problem with its new OMC Shooter four-blade propeller.

The OMC Shooter features a combination over-and-through hub exhaust design that allows a controlled amount of exhaust gas to ventilate around the entire circumference of the prop hub.

The result is higher rpm and less heat for faster, cooler and more performing.

The OMC Shooter comes in 15, 17 and 19 inch pitches.

When should squirrel season open?

What do the hunters in south Mississippi think about the squirrel season dates in their area? The Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson wants to know.

When to open the squirrel season has been one of the hottest topics of conversation at public hearings in past years. Ask five different hunters their opinion and you may get five differing views.

In past years setting the squirrel season in south Mississippi has revolved around the presence of the bot fly in squirrels. Setting the opening date too early, some say, and you harvest more squirrels with bots. Set the date too late and you penalize hunters with fewer days.

"So what do hunters in south Mississippi really want in terms of an opening date for squirrel season," executive director Vernon Bevill asked recently.

"What I'd like to see is hunters sit down and write a letter to me here at the Department of Wildlife Conservation and let me know if they like the opening of squirrel season as it is now, or should it be changed to some other date."

Bevill said that the comments would be used as a guide for helping resolve the issue of when to open squirrel season in south Mississippi.

You may forward your views on the opening date for squirrel season in south Mississippi to: Squirrel Seasons, Department of Wildlife Conservation, P.O. Box 451, Jackson, MS 39205-0451.

STUDENTS HONORED for their participation in an Essay/Speech Contest conducted by Coast Electric include, from left, Becky Dickenson, St. John High School; Laurie Batson, Poplarville High; Wende Mitchell, Poplarville High; April Humphrey, Poplarville High; and Todd Doner, also from Poplarville High School. Dickenson and Humphrey were selected as contest winners and will represent Coast Electric at a Youth Leadership Seminar in Jackson and will travel to Washington, D.C. in June for the Rural Electric Youth Tour.

Coast Electric names youth tour winners

Becky Dickenson, junior class student at St. John High School and April Humphrey, a junior from Poplarville High School are the winners of an essay-speech contest conducted by Coast Electric Power Association.

Robert Occhi, general manager of Coast Electric, said the two students were chosen from students who submitted essays on "Cooperative Principles—Building Blocks for Today's Rural Electrics".

According to Occhi, the students will represent Coast Electric at a youth Leadership Seminar Mar. 24-25 in Jackson and will participate in a Rural Electric Youth Tour of Washington in June.

The Youth Leadership Seminar is sponsored by the Electric Power Association of Mississippi. Approximately 25 students representing electric cooperatives from across Mississippi will attend the two-day seminar.

Students will participate in several activities and will learn about the progress, development and impact of rural electrification.

"This seminar will review the role of cooperatives in today's business community and give these leaders of tomorrow a broader scope of the electric utility industry," stated Occhi.

He added students will also meet with their local legislators and tour the state capital.

Dickenson and Humphrey will travel to Washington, D.C. the week of June 11-17 to join over 1,000 high school students for the annual Rural Electric Youth Tour.

The tour is coordinated by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. Each June students from all across the U.S. travel to the nation's capital to witness first-hand the federal government in action.

"Coast Electric is proud to sponsor two representatives to attend the Youth Tour. We feel it is so important for young people to gain greater understanding of democracy and to experience the rich heritage and political environment which surrounds Washington," Occhi stated.

The essay contest was open to all junior class students residing in Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River Counties. Occhi commended the outstanding efforts of local school administrators and teachers for participating in this program.

FUND RAISER—Stephanie Huggins, Easter Seal regional director, presents Spell-A-Thon trophy to Andre Perilloux for raising $130.

St. Clare School raises funds for Easter Seal Society

The 1988 Easter Seal Campaign is underway in Hancock County.

One of the main fund raising events is the Easter Seal Spell-A-Thon which involves the elementary grades.

Students seek sponsors to pledge money for each word they spell correctly on a test of 100 words.

St. Clare completed their Spell-A-Thon on Feb. 10 and raised $921.

The highest overall fund raiser was Andre Perilloux, a first grader in Ms. Bilbo's class. Andre raised $130. He received the Spell-A-Thon trophy, along with a certificate, a pencil pak, binoculars, a barrel bag, t-shirt, visor and a ruler. The second highest fund raiser was Nikki Chapman. She raised $94. Nikki received a study board, a t-shirt, a visor a ruler and a certificate.

Seventy percent of the money raised from the Spell-A-Thon remains in Hancock County to provide direct services to disabled children and adults. Anyone seeking information about Easter Seals or their services, contact Sandy Dickerson at the Easter Seal office in Biloxi at 435-4505.

A special thanks is extended to Sister Jane Bircher and the faculty for their support and encouragement in this project. Also, the Mississippi Easter Seal Society would like to express thanks to every contributor who made the Spell-A-Thon a success.
